

Data annotation-user and item profile creation

User: 95rangerover, and item id: 1146545

User Documents:

Buyer beware. This is not a hotel. It is a bunch of unsold condos- mostly studios that are being rented out as hotel rooms. There is no maid service (unless you want to pay extra)There is no front desk. There is no concierge. There is no room service. There is no wifi. There is no phone. Parking is $20.00/day extra. If you do not take out the trash when you leave there is a hefty fine. The kitchenetts are not outfitted properly. We had 2 coffee cups, but no coffee maker, and only one glass. We had a maybe 24" TV that got only three channels, only one in english. Bedding is crappy. Fit and finish is the worst I have ever seen. The craftsmanship is so bad I am surprised they sold any units. On the plus side, the balcony was nice, and the view was pretty good. Just know what you are giving up. This is a great botique hotel. Good location, stunning rooms, first class service, and a great price for the quality. This is a really nice resort. You will not be disappointed. Pay extra to get ocean front, if the view from your room in important. The resort is right on the ocean and the pool complex is really nice. The price includes the best breakfast buffet I have had, including omlets made to order. There is also a 2 hour manager's reception from 5:30 to 7:30 with free drinks. Staff was great. Rooms clean. The pool is not crowded. There is an open air pool bar which looks over the pools and ocean. Order the Cuban sandwich. Nice restrauant on property. One nice asian restrauant right across from the entry drive. Casino on property. Lots of local restrauants within 1-2 miles (but too far to walk to them). The reviews for this are uniformly positive and well deserved.

User profile:

The user prefers good quality hotels, with very good room service, and front desk service. User also care for concierge. They expect reliable in-room amenities such as free Wi-Fi, a functional phone, and a TV with multiple English channels. Well-equipped kitchenettes and quality bedding are important to them, along with easy and reasonably priced parking. Cleanliness and well-maintained rooms are essential, with an emphasis on high-quality craftsmanship in room fittings. The user enjoys on-site dining options, inclusive meal deals like breakfast buffets, and complimentary drinks during manager's receptions. They prefer resorts with nice, uncrowded pools and additional amenities like casinos and nearby local restaurants. They value good locations, particularly oceanfront views, and are willing to pay extra for superior rooms. Positive reviews and consistent service quality are crucial, and they appreciate helpful staff and a relaxing, enjoyable experience

Item document:

Buyer beware. This is not a hotel. It is a bunch of unsold condos- mostly studios that are being rented out as hotel rooms. There is no maid service (unless you want to pay extra)There is no front desk. There is no concierge. There is no room service. There is no wifi. There is no phone. Parking is $20.00/day extra. If you do not take out the trash when you leave there is a hefty fine. The kitchenettes are not outfitted properly. We had 2 coffee cups, but no coffee maker, and only one glass. We had a maybe 24" TV that got only three channels, only one in english. Bedding is crappy. Fit and finish is the worst I have ever seen. The craftsmanship is so bad I am surprised they sold any units. On the plus side, the balcony was nice, and the view was pretty good. Just know what you are giving up. Unclean, unaccommodating, poorly supplied rm, booked 1BR apt./actually studio with black mold, no coffee maker or DW. A good area, find another accommodation! I booked this "hotel" for a special guest we had at our company. The location was great, and it seemed like a good deal. However, this is not a hotel, it's a condo. The guest arrived at 9pm and there was no service at the front desk, her room had no curtains, and the bed had no linens. There is no service at all, no one cleans. Unless you don't care and all you want is a cheap place in a good location I would never stay here. Certainly, this place does not conform to the 3.5 star rating it has, I would give it 2 stars at most! This is a high rise apartment building with some vacant studios that are 'rented out' & have zero amenities! It's a fraud--in the middle of the lovely Brickell neighborhood. The room was in dire need of a thorough cleaning and overhaul. We slept in our clothes & didn't even take a shower....the bedding wasn't clean, no mattress cover under the sheets! The bathroom had mold and mildew in the shower, a dirty soap dish, a half used roll of toilet paper, no bathmat, hand towels or washcloths--only 2 towels. The few utensils in the "kitchenette" were dirty with dried food residue on them, & no soap or anything to wash them with. I could go on and on. We tried to find another hotel in this area for the night but everything was booked. STAY SOMEWHERE ELSE IF YOU WANT A GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP!!!! Horrible service! I found out it is not a hotel but a residence where somebody manages a few rooms. There is no front desk or concierge. I'd rather stay in a real hotel that is clean and maintained.

Item Profile:

This is a condo units with very minimal amenities. It lacks basic hotel services such as maid service, a front desk, concierge, room service, Wi-Fi, and a phone. Parking costs an additional $20 per day, and guests face hefty fines if they don't take out the trash. The kitchenettes are poorly equipped, often missing essential items like coffee makers and proper glassware. Rooms feature subpar bedding, limited TV channels, and poor craftsmanship. Cleanliness is a major issue, with reports of dirty bedding, mold and mildew in the bathrooms, and unclean utensils. The location is good, but the overall experience is severely lacking, with many guests recommending finding alternative accommodations for a more comfortable and serviced stay.